Preface

P.1 Purpose

This NASA Procedural Requirements (NPR) describes processes for implementing and managing the NASA Occupational Health Program (OHP). The OHP is the overreaching Agency function encompassing two major components (Occupational Medicine and Environmental Health) and integrating other essential contributors to employee health. This NPR explains how services and reporting procedures for occupational medicine, occupational health nursing, environmental health, and employee support elements are standardized, when warranted and practicable, across the Agency.

P.2 Applicability

This NPG is applicable to NASA Headquarters, NASA Centers and Component Facilities as well as to the Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL) and NASA contractors to the extent specified in their contracts.
